Municipal Elections in Ohio and Indiana Carried by the Democrats

CINCINNATI April [illegible] But five precincts in the city are yet to be reported and [illegible] show republican gains. Unofficial reports gathered at the [illegible] club indicate that the vote is [illegible] between [illegible] and Stephens for mayor [illegible] election is assured by from 300 to 5000.

Commercial Gazette's special: Republicans elected the candidates at [illegible] and London, Ohio. A divided ticket was elected at Mansfield, [illegible] Newark and Akron. The democrats elected their entire ticket at Chillicothe and Findlay and Xenia, Ohio, elected a democratic solicitor.

Unofficial returns show that the democrats have elected their mayor.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 3.—Indications at this hour are that the whole democratic city ticket and four and perhaps five out of the seven councilmen are elected.

CINCINNATI, April 3.—The common council joint ballot stands democratic 42, republican 38. Official returns will be necessary to show the majorities of the officers elected.

The Opinion of the Commercial Bulletin

NEW YORK, April 3.—[Special.]—The Commercial Bulletin, quoting a San Francisco contemporary commenting on the removal of Californian capitalists eastward, thinks there is no deep meaning in this melancholy acknowledgment which ought to be understood in other sections of the country besides California. If Nob Hill has not been transferred to the aristocratic precincts of Fifth avenue and Murray Hill it is only because the transfer of real estate cannot be accomplished with the same celerity as stocks and bonds. This transfer, nevertheless, has taken place to some extent, and it will be fortunate for the state if it is not progressive with the loose notions respecting the rights of property and taxation of capital now dominant with the governing classes. In fact, it would be strange if it were otherwise.

Transcontinental Statement

NEW YORK, April 3.—[Special.]—The Mail and Express: The expected Transcontinental statement became public to-day. It shows that the Transcontinental owns 19,800,000 Oregon Navigation stock, $18,000,000 Northern Pacific preferred and $27,000,000 Northern Pacific common. These securities are in possession of the company, unhypothecated, and there is no floating debt. The company has cash items amounting to $20,430,000. Most of this money has been loaned to the Northern Pacific Railroad company, but will be repaid to the Transcontinental as soon as the government commissioners have accepted the road now under examination. The market value of the securities owned is about $41,700,000, making with the cash asset a total holding of about $46,000,000.

Rough on the Cattle Thieves

NEW YORK, April 3.—[Special.]—The World's El Paso, Texas, special says: Governor Sheldon of New Mexico has completed the organization of 23 companies of territorial militia, and is vigorously protecting the Mexican frontier against cattle stealing and is pursuing and capturing cattle thieves and ruffians generally. Fights, killings and arrests occur almost daily. Stock amounting to over $1,000,000 has been stolen. The militia shoot thieves down without any compunction of conscience whenever found.

A Schoolmistress Commits Suicide

OMAHA, April 3.—[Special.]—The body of Miss A. M. Church was found three miles north of Stanton, Nebraska, to-day. She was a school teacher and left Norfolk about noon on January 1st, since which time nothing was heard of her until to-day. The body was badly mutilated, the face and breast being eaten off by wolves. She evidently committed suicide, as she wrote on an envelope directing her body to be sent to Park Mills, New York.

Will Not be Punished

MILWAUKEE, April 3.—Gen. Thomas Reynolds, late pension agent at Madison, who fraudulently obtained $5,000, will escape punishment, the United States attorney at Madison having received a letter from Attorney General Brewster authorizing him to enter a nolle prosequi when the case comes up, provided Reynolds returns the amount taken. He was accused of collecting pensions of widows who had been dead some years.

Contagious Diseases of Cattle

CHEYENNE, Wyoming, April 3.—The stock growers association to-day appointed a committee to visit the Chicago cattle fair to confer with cattle growers generally as to methods preventing the spread of contagious diseases. Judge Carey was elected president and Thomas Sturgess secretary. The meeting then adjourned until July 3d to consider the question of freight and transportation.

Whisky Dealers' Case

NEW YORK, April 2.—The United States court in banc denied a motion in arrest of judgment on the plea of guilty of George D. Bayard and Gustav F. Perrenoud, the New street liquor dealers who reused revenue whisky stamps. The parties were allowed two weeks to prepare an appeal.

The Shoemakers' Strike

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—It has been arranged that Mundell's shoemakers will return to work at the old rates for four weeks. If business is not then improved a 10 per cent reduction of wages takes place or the 800 men will be discharged.

Positively Refuses to Interfere.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 3.—Gov. Blackburn having declined to interfere with or pardon David Ferguson, will be taken to the state prison at Frankfort to-morrow to begin his service of a five years term of imprisonment.

A Colored Lawyer

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April [illegible]—B. Cobenjamin, a colored lawyer, has applied for and obtained a license to practice law at the Albemarle county bar. This is the first colored man that ever applied for a license.

Failure of a Drug Firm

NEW YORK, April 3.—Schedules in the matter of the assignment for the benefit of the creditors of Joseph A. Harty & Son, importers and jobbers in drugs, were filed to-day. Liabilities $98,591; assets $60,000.

SPORTING

National Rifle Association

NEW YORK, April 3.—[Special.]—The National Rifle association held its regular monthly meeting this afternoon. General Grant was unanimously elected president of the association. A committee was appointed to arrange matters connected with the departure of the team for the contest at Wimbledon. It is stated that a great amount of interest is being displayed throughout the country in the present competition, and from advices received from England it is believed the team will receive a most enthusiastic reception on the other side.

In connection with the international match at Wimbledon in July next, the National association has resolved on competitions for the selection of a team to be held at Creedmoor May 14, and on the following Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. The team finally chosen will report at Creedmoor June 19 for practice continuing till the 30th. Military authorities of the several states will be requested to use their influence to induce members of the National guard to compete for places on the competing teams and see that they are represented on the first representative body of American soldiers that has ever visited Great Britain. Gen. Rodman, Col. Litchfield, Col. Ogden, Col. Story and Col. G. L. H. Ward were appointed as a board of representatives to select a team and to make all other arrangements relative to competition.

Billiard Contest in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 3.—The game last night between Vignaux and Sexton drew a very large audience, including many ladies. Sexton opened the game very weakly. In the first fourteen innings he averaged less than five against an average of over thirty by Vignaux. The call at the close of the fourteenth inning showed Vignaux 412, Sexton 66. After the eighteenth inning Vignaux played indifferently and seemed disposed to allow Sexton a chance to reach at least 100, but the New Yorker could not improve his opportunity, and in the twenty-first inning Vignaux finished the score. [illegible] was [illegible] Oregon, [illegible] April 18 [illegible] was bright [illegible] her [illegible] appearance [illegible] her but received [illegible] sign of recognition.

J. N. [illegible] a former resident of Olympia, testified that he knew her family; defendant was one [illegible] remarkably bright and intelligent girl. When she worked in the printing office with his son she evinced quite a taste for literature, and frequently wrote for the local papers. [illegible] saw her in prison she was a [illegible] very wild and strange, and was very much changed from the person he formerly knew.

Mrs. M. S. W. [illegible] formerly of Olympia, at present living in Oakland, also testified to the queer action of defendant about the time of her arrest, and that she did not appear to have been in her right mind.

E. C. Stock, police reporter of the Call, testified to having conversed with her within a half hour after her arrest, and that at the time she was much excited, behaved strangely and was irrational. She would not speak directly on the shooting and acted in a manner much different from other persons arrested on a similar charge. She would start on the subject but would not say more than a few words when she would commence to wander, and was at times hysterical.

A number of depositions of persons residing in Seattle were then read, the first being that of Miss Clara Livingston, in which she stated that Verona Baldwin lived there last year for a short time. She was then apparently deranged and often made threats against her life. At one time she ran away from a convent and subsequently was found at a hotel without any knowledge of where she was or how she reached there. One of her hallucinations was that she had a husband who would come after her. She was not even suspected of being demented until after her return from San Francisco in November last. She had the reputation of being very ambitious, and at one time her health was affected by over study.

The depositions of Cornelius H. Hanford, Abbie J. Hanford, Clara M. Hanford, Elwood Hanford, Mrs. Cora B. Baldwin, John S. Hill and Mrs. Annie B. Harrington, all of Seattle, were also read. The trial will be continued to-morrow, when a number of reporters will be examined.

The New Consul Leaves for New York

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—[Special.]—William Lane Booker, formerly British consul at this port and recently promoted consul to New York, took his departure to-day accompanied by his wife. A large number of representative citizens were on board the steamer Saucelito, which had been placed at their disposal by the railroad company, and steamed across the bay to Oakland pier, close to the steamer El Capitan, on which the consul was a passenger. All the British vessels in port showed a liberal display of bunting.

Leaving Colorado for the Great Northwest

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—[Special.]—A train of nine coaches of people left Denver this morning via the Union Pacific for the Pacific coast. They bought 250 tickets, and there were a large number of children. Emigration from Colorado to California, Oregon and Washington and Idaho is beginning to increase very rapidly, and will be immense this spring.

William Horace Lingard Replies

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—[Special.]—William Horace Lingard, in a suit brought against him by Frederick Corbett to recover fare for himself and Tennie [illegible] But on to New York, answers, denying all the allegations of the complaint and that he holds a release from his obligations to both under contract.

NEW YORK, April [illegible]—[Special.]—Among San Francisco residents at hotels here are the following: J. E. Glemcuts, M. Hoot, F. E. Lewis, M. Merif Jr., J. E. A. Thalys, E. W. Thompson, B. Keeler, A. L. Van Blarie, Mrs. Geer, Mrs. and Miss Rixton, H. Dree; also J. B. Wilder of Sacramento.

ARIZONA

The Rebellious Apaches

SAN CARLOS, April 3.—Lieutenant Davis furnishes the following information: [illegible] He says: I left Chiricahua three days ago. There are two bands in Arizona—Chato's, 26 men, and Geronimo's, 80 men. Juh was left in the Sierra [illegible] mountains, Mexico, with three men and five women. [illegible] is in a stronghold four days march southeast from Casa Grande with 18 men, remnants of [illegible] band and all the women of the bands [illegible] Natchez, Cochise's son, is with Chato. The bands left the camp in Mexico 12 days ago. One came to the Whetstone mountains near Tombstone, the other went up into Arizona further east. I left that band near Pueblo Viejo. They intended to go north to the Mogollon mountains, circle to the right and then go south to the place where Col. Garcia had the fight last year. These Indians are all from San Carlos reservation except fourteen of Victorio's old band. They left the reservation a year ago. These are all the Indians in Mexico on the warpath, controlled by Geronimo. Loco lives apart from them. A majority want to return to the reservation, and Loco is anxious to surrender, but the others will not let him. The Indian captured is ironed and in the guard house.

WALLA WALLA, April 3.—[Special.]—Two soldiers named McClellan and Barnes escaped from the guard house at Fort Walla Walla last night.

THE OREGON PACIFIC

Col. Hogg in San Francisco—He Stands Off the "Oregonian's" Representative

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—[Special.]—In an interview of THE OREGONIAN'S correspondent this afternoon with T. Egenton Hogg, director of the Oregon Pacific railroad, as to contemplated developments in connection with the extension from Corvallis, he declined to make any statement, urging as a reason that the company proposed to pursue the even tenor of its way without being obliged to forestall its work by newspaper notoriety. The gentleman was considerably exercised over a recent telegram to THE OREGONIAN announcing his return from the east and giving the motive of the purported meeting in the east at which it was decided to push the road to a speedy conclusion, and which he regarded as unwarrantable interference with private matters. He said he did not propose to be forced to say anything in regard to the matter while the contemplated improvements were yet in a nebulous state, and he would stand on his inalienable right to maintain silence if he felt so disposed, adding: "I know perfectly well what will be done, and through the head office in at Corvallis I direct all the movements and represent directly eastern capitalists who are interested in it."

"Allow me to ask, Mr. Hogg, as I desire to telegraph your answer as a matter of news, whether it is proposed to build road at once or not?" The gentleman jumped from his chair, his face flushed and considerably excited. He said: "Blank it, sir, what you blank please. Do you take me and those who put money into the enterprise for howling idiots that they will abandon the road at this late day? I [illegible] your question an insult and slur on the road."

Reporter—"Not at all. An answer one way or other is all that is necessary. I have repeatedly [illegible] and [illegible] assure you of the [illegible] that you would make the matter public."

A DISASTROUS EXPLOSION

[illegible] Patrolman John Ford was knocked about 20 feet and after the others had made their escape was found in an insensible condition at the foot of the stairs. As fast as the wounded men were brought to the light they were placed in carriages and driven rapidly to the main patrol house on Stevenson street, where physicians were in waiting. The sight was one never to be forgotten. Men were disrobed, and when the bandaging process was completed they were placed in their beds and presented a horrible spectacle. Their faces and hands had assumed immense proportions, and the groans of the injured mingled with the hurried movements of the attendants, together with the picture of the surrounding comrades who had been more fortunate in the discharge of their duty, rendered the scene doubly impressive. The whole patrol system was demoralized. The billiard room was prepared for an infirmary, and the wounded, borne on the shoulders of their comrades, were transferred from the dormitory and made as comfortable as possible under the circumstances.

LIST OF THE INJURED

In consequence of lack of men occasioned by the accident, the board of underwriters have called in some of the patrolmen from the outside districts and also have added a number of extra men. It is believed that the total number of persons injured will reach 25, although it is impossible to obtain correct figures, as some of the men disappeared into neighboring drug stores or were taken away by friends. Of these John Kavanaugh, son of a tailor in the Palace hotel block, who went down into the basement, and after the first explosion was seen flying up the street with uplifted hands crying out "For God's sake save me!" Those known to have been wounded are Russell White, captain of the fire patrol, severely burned about the face, hands and head; Patrolman John McCormick, in addition to the above injuries, is badly burned about the left shoulder and was taken to his residence. Patrolman John Ford, burned about the face, hands and arms, was sent to St. Mary's hospital. Patrolmen George LaRose, George Harrison, Eugene Drew, Rockwell, Chapman and John Kavanaugh, face, hands, head and stomach burned. Assistant Engineer Tim Riley, M. Gately, James Gilliname and John McGlory were also severely burned. John A. Jackson, a private detective of the Palace hotel, was very badly burned all over the body. John C., the colored waiter, George Mysell, colored waiter, and John S. Barnes, assistant engineer, were all severely hurt.

THE INDIAN SCARE

Captain McGregor Again Summoned to the Warpath to Protect the Indians

WALLA WALLA, April 3.—[Special.]—Captain McGregor starting again on a trail to the Wallowa on account of Indian affairs, the daily Statesman has the following, which sums the affair up: When Captain McGregor was on Alder creek last week adjusting the difficulties then existing between the settlers and the little Indians, he gave instructions to the latter if they were further disturbed by this man Williams or his partner to notify him at once. Sunday he received word from the Indians that they were in trouble, whereupon the captain left for Alder creek. [illegible] Williams' partner had left [illegible] island [illegible] Yakima [illegible] could not prevail on the Indian authorities at the reservation to have them [illegible] and [illegible] removed from the island. It was the intent of this man, accompanied by a squad of Indian police, [illegible] Captain McGregor for protection. Now the Indian outbreak takes another form, an [illegible] starting out to massacre and pillage. It is

TWO MISERABLE SQUATTERS

Who are goading them on to desperation simply to satisfy their own greed and obtain that [illegible] of a little island. Surely this is a beautiful example to set for the Indians to follow. We don't see why this small band of inoffensive bucks should be compelled to abandon their fishing and root digging, simply because these two squatters desire all of the island. Captain McGregor was not favorably impressed with one of these individuals on his former visit, and his dislike is strengthened by the utter contempt evinced by the Indians to him. We opine that were the latter in the least hostile such treatment as they have been subjected to lately would have made it exceedingly tropical for these two hog raisers on Long Island. There should be some law enacted to cover a case of this kind, and too severe a penalty could not be attached to meet the ends of justice. From the reports sent in by Captain McGregor we learn that everything is all right, and the gentleman expects to be home this evening.

THE TWO REPUBLICS

What General Frisbie Has to Say Concerning the Relations Between the United States and Mexico

NEW YORK, April 3.—[Special.]—General Frisbie informed the California press reporter to-day that Diaz and party were highly pleased with their reception here and in other American cities, and the result of the visit will undoubtedly be to strengthen American influence in Mexico, which is already dominant over the [illegible] of Germans and other foreigners, and is rapidly growing in favor among the Mexican masses. Frisbie says this was particularly noticeable during his recent trip with Diaz through Texas to Monterey, there existing along the frontier very little of the jealousy and ill will which lately marked Mexican intercourse with our people. A considerable number of Californians have taken cattle ranches in southwestern Texas and in the number is augmenting yearly. He expects a large influx of Americans into Mexico along the lines of railroads where splendid openings in wheat, corn and grazing lands may be found. He reiterates the statement that

DIAZ'S VISIT IS PURELY SOCIAL,

And for recreation, having no particular significance whatever. He thinks the sugar men of the southwest will be reconciled to the reciprocity treaty in view of the other advantages it will confer on the southwest, and fully expects its confirmation at the next session. Sunday last Diaz and wife, Senator and Miss Rubio, Dr. Licaga, ex-Governor Pacheco and others lunched with the bankers [illegible] and [illegible] Sumner, old Californians, at the latter's residence on Fifth avenue. To-morrow night Diaz and party will dine with Grant and the next night with the Union League club. On Sunday they leave for Boston. The ex-president leaves here within a fortnight by steamer for Galveston, and thence to Mexico. Pacheco returns to California this week.

[illegible] POSTMASTER-GENERALSHIP

[illegible] to his Room—Arthur [illegible] Fair [illegible]

WASHINGTON, April 3.—[Special.]—The Mexican [illegible] to the secretary of state a complaint in which he avers that Apache Indians from San Carlos are raiding in the state of Sonora [illegible] Enclosed to the minister [illegible] extracts from reports made by the Mexican consul at Tombstone, Arizona, saying that [illegible] thousand [illegible] in reservation singly and [illegible] bands of two, three and four each.

The commissioner of Indian affairs says that the [illegible] Last week there was [illegible] of the Indians on the San Carlos reservation and none were absent. General Crook, who is in command of the department of Arizona, also reports that the reservation Indians are peaceable. The raiding party is composed of renegades who left the reservation many years ago under Chief Juh. These savages have received accessions from thirty [illegible] Mexican Indians, and the band has robbed and murdered continuously on both sides of the line. Their plunder has been sold in Mexico. General Crook estimates that about 100 white people have been murdered by the renegades during the past year. Troops are now in pursuit of the renegades, and the Mexican authorities will co-operate with the United States in exterminating the bands.

Pulling for the Postmaster Generalship

WASHINGTON, April 3.—[Special.]—The president has not yet selected a postmaster general. He wishes to choose a representative western man of experience, capacity and reputation, who will not only add strength to his administration but inspire republicans of that section with renewed zeal and confidence in the party. The difficulty of finding such a man is increased by the fact that the new postmaster general must be able to co-operate harmoniously with the other members of the cabinet, and he should come from a state that is not represented by any of the present officers of the government. Mr. Hatton, who has perhaps the strongest endorsements of any candidate for the place, is regarded by the president as such an invaluable man for his present office that he will probably not be promoted. Wisconsin has very light material to offer.

Senators Cameron and Sawyer, accompanied by two or three gentlemen from that state, called upon the president this afternoon and presented the name of James H. Howe of Kenosha, Wis., nephew of the late postmaster general. He is unknown outside of the state. The names of Governor Porter and Representative Calkins are presented from Indiana. Governor Porter is extremely popular in the Hoosier state. He is a good lawyer and possesses fine executive ability. Calkins is a young man who has served six years in congress and attained considerable distinction. Ohio men are pressing the claims of that state in the person of ex-Representative Butterworth. He does not appear to have a ghost of a chance. The president has not seriously considered the name of ex-Senator Windom of Minnesota, which has been mentioned for the place. John A. Martin of Kansas, member of the republican national committee, is highly commended, but Martin labors under the disadvantage of being almost unknown outside of his state.

A Voluminous Publication.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—[Special.]—The Congressional Record of the last session of the 47th congress will contain 3777 pages, with an appendix which contains entirely of speeches which were not delivered but printed on leave, consisting of 350 pages more. It will be the largest record ever published of a short session of congress. The index of which will be a volume of about 150 pages, and is conducted on the same plan as the excellent index of the first session of the 47th congress. In addition to the valuable features of the former index, the index to these new volumes will contain a careful analysis of the entire tariff debate, so that it will be possible at a glance to find every change that was made, with regard to each specific article in the tariff list. It will require five volumes and an appendix to contain the proceedings. The appendix will be devoted to the many speeches printed under general permission which have not appeared in the belated numbers of the Record. Criticism upon the number which was required to print the speech of General Wheeler of Georgia, which with maps cost about $1600, seems to have discouraged the government printer [illegible] from continuing the publication of the Record after that date, but the appendix with 400 pages will doubtless contain some undelivered speeches quite as interesting, if not as costly as that of General Wheeler.

Creates a Curious Sensation.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—[Special.]—Rev. Dr. Blanchard of Weston, Ill., created a curious sensation here yesterday while officiating at the funeral of a Mr. Ford, who was a member of many secret societies. He bitterly [illegible] His father greatly opposed secret societies [illegible] was a member of a national [illegible] association whose object was to destroy secret societies. Ford has threatened to disinherit his daughter-in-law if she permitted secret societies to bury him. As she would have been utterly destitute without his aid, she acceded to the request, and Blanchard was asked by the father to officiate. He commenced a tirade against secret societies, and speedily drove the crushed widow into hysterics, and was soon forced to discontinue his sermon and leave the church by the indignant demonstrations of the audience. The services was concluded by the regular pastor. Mr. Blanchard afterwards stated that he was a candidate of his association for the presidency, but he might retire in favor of ex-Senator Pomeroy of Kansas.

Waiting for Dr. Collins' Questions.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Jeannette court of inquiry met at noon, and Fireman Bartlett testified that he had no charge to lay or special commendation to offer regarding any of the officers or men. He will make as thorough a search for the missing parties as could be made under any circumstances. The judge advocate stated that he had received a telegram from Dr. F. Collins of Minneapolis, stating that he had not been notified of the arrival of Bartlett, and that he had mailed a list of questions to be asked on behalf of his brother, and requested the court to wait until the receipt of his communication, as he insisted upon a full and thorough examination. The court therefore adjourned until tomorrow, when the letter probably will be received from Dr. Collins. The president of the court directed the members of the crew to be instructed to remain here until examined upon the questions to be submitted by Collins.

Land Decision

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The secretary of the interior has decided that an application to amend a homestead entry is a matter of right only when no attempt to correct a mistake [illegible] otherwise [illegible] would result in depriving a settler of his actual home or valuable improvements, and if at the same time it should be a matter of executive discretion to enable him to take the full quantity allowed by law, and to avoid a conflict with other settlers' claims. The new lands so to be included must be vacant and free from adverse claims, legal or equitable, so that no injustice to any other person shall result therefrom.

The Proposed Treaty with Mexico.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—[Special.]—Secretary Frelinghuysen expressed an opinion in the course of a conversation to-day that the commercial treaty with Mexico will be ratified by the senate next winter at the head [illegible] while General Diaz was here he and the secretary discussed the matter. General Diaz is confident that the Mexican senate would ratify the treaty, and he was anxious to know what American [illegible] He expressed that [illegible] sugar interests in Louisiana would [illegible] The secretary of state thought [illegible] opposition will be fully offset [illegible] commercial circles in New Orleans in favor of the treaty.

The Nicaragua Canal

WASHINGTON, April 3.—[Special.]—Capt. Phelps, president of the Nicaragua canal, says the company can get all the money it needs as soon as the market relaxes and money is easier. He will go before congress again next winter and ask something more than an act of incorporation. The original effort to get a guarantee of the company's bonds will be renewed.

Arthur and the Cleveland Nine

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Manager Bancroft and all members of the Cleveland base ball nine called on President Arthur this afternoon and were received in the cabinet room. After a general handshaking the president complimented them upon their fine appearance and remarked that they looked like ball players, and that good ball players were good citizens.

The Report Discredited

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The war department has received no official information in regard to the report that Gen. Crook had issued an order to kill on sight the hostile Indians, [illegible] which it says [illegible] Indians now on the warpath and the report is discredited.

Newspaper Articles not Recognized

LONDON, April 3.—In the commons to-day the under secretary, in reply to [illegible] who questioned him with regard to certain strictures in New York newspapers on the manner in which the United States had dealt with the general award, said it was contrary to usage and inconsistent with the dignity of the house to base discussion on a passage in foreign newspapers destitute of official character and only representing the opinion of its own writers. He said the Alabama question was now only of historical importance, and the government had no interest in the manner in which the American government disposed of the money.

Warning for a Compatriot

LONDON, April 3.—Minister Lowell, in a speech at the lord mayor's banquet last night, said that he had from time to time read sensational statements in the newspapers purporting to give instructions that he had received from his government and words that he had spoken on diplomatic questions. He would say that these prophecies were like those of the prophet Wiggins, and he should continue to believe that the good relations existing between Great Britain and the United States would be enduring. Certainly nothing that he would do would tend to lessen their friendly character.

Churchill's Letter Creates a Storm.

LONDON, April 3.—Churchill's letter, advocating the claims of Salisbury to the sole leadership of the tories, has created the strongest indignation among the general body of the tory party. Measures are in progress intended to satisfy Northcote that he is sure of the unwavering support of his followers. In the commons Northcote was greeted with prolonged cheers from the tory side. This is regarded as a strong demonstration that the affair is not approved by the conservatives.

Cornering Lady Florence Dixie

LONDON, April 3.—The gentleman who stated recently that he saw Lady Florence Dixie the whole time she was standing on the spot where the alleged attack upon her was committed, and saw her walk away without anybody accosting her, has reduced his statement to writing and declares himself prepared to abide thereby.

The Friendship Between England and America.

LONDON, April 3.—At the lord mayor's Easter banquet to-night, Lowell, United States minister, replying to a toast of foreign ministers, said the relations between England and America were never more cordial than now. The declaration was received with an earnest mark of approval.

Parnell's Request.

LONDON, April 3.—During yesterday's debate in the house of commons Parnell urged that further excursions on Ireland be suspended until a court of criminal appeal be established and put in operation. The bill to establish this court has reached the second reading in commons.

IRELAND

The Dynamite Projectors.

CORK, April 3.—[Special.]—Morgan, an employe of the Cork steamship company, has been arrested and accused of using his position to facilitate the carrying of arms and explosives between England and this city. He is also a member of the temperance club of which O'Herlihy, arrested Thursday, and charged with a conspiracy to murder, is president. Documents were found on Featherstone, the American who was arrested with O'Herlihy, and said to be a newspaper writer, showing him to be in direct communication with O'Donovan Rossa. Letters were seized from Rossa giving elaborate orders with regard to the mode of using explosives similar to those found in the box carried by Dennis Deasy, arrested in Liverpool Thursday on his arrival from this city.

Morgan Arraigned.

CORK, April 3.—Morgan, an employe of the Cork Steamship Co., arrested yesterday on suspicion of having used his position to accelerate the carrying of explosives between England and this port, was arraigned this morning for examination and remanded for eight days.

CANADA

Removal of the Last Body of British Troops From Canada

OTTAWA, April 3.—[Special.]—A private cablegram announces that Halifax garrison, the last remnant of the imperial army in Canada, will be withdrawn next November. This may be regarded as completion of that policy of the gradual emancipation from imperial control instituted shortly after the war of secession by the liberals of England, and interrupted for a time while Lord Beaconsfield was in power, and now resumed with a view to its final completion.

British troops are not needed in Canada. The government of the Dominion is strong enough to maintain peace within its own borders and there no longer exists the slightest danger from the United States. With this in view the militia acts are being amended to provide for the enrollment of a permanent troop of cavalry, another battery of artillery and three companies of infantry. These are not much, but with the two batteries already in existence and the mounted police the country will have a nucleus of a regular army sufficient for its present needs.

AN OBJECTION EXAMINED.

The writer at Albany who favors us with another article against high license, which he considers unjust and perhaps unconstitutional and for which he would substitute prohibition makes only a special plea, and a special plea is seldom broad enough to take in all the necessary facts. It would be a great injustice to the liquor seller, he thinks, to tax his business to an extent that would burden it, but it is justice to prohibit it entirely. This is too fine a point—if it be a point at all. Let it be admitted that the state has the right to prohibit in toto, then by what logic can it be maintained that it has not the right to enact restrictive measures less than prohibitory? By every rule known to the science of quantity the whole of a thing includes all the parts of that thing.

Let us see farther. The liquor trade is acknowledged to be dangerous to society. Everywhere the law discriminates against it. It must be kept under regulation and restraint. Some communities go so far as to enact laws to prohibit it entirely. Others would attempt the same thing, if they had reason to believe they could make it effective; but they hesitate, not wishing to give up the revenue for a dead letter statute. This is the position of great numbers who advocate high license. Observe, however, that the liquor trade is not the only dangerous traffic, though it may be the most dangerous one. The gunpowder business cannot be carried on in this city. Persons who deal in the article cannot handle it here. Nor is a man allowed to set up a soap factory or establish a tanyard where he pleases. But the law does not wholly prohibit these trades. If, however, the logic of the Albany writer be sound, it ought to leave them entirely free, or wholly prohibit them.

The ideal method of dealing with the evils of the liquor traffic is to declare by law that the traffic shall not exist! But it will exist; [illegible]. Where there is so great a demand there will be means of supply. Enforcement of law depends on local sentiment, and however unanimous the feeling in Linn county against the liquor traffic, that feeling will not enforce prohibition in Portland. But since we cannot entirely stop the liquor traffic, why shouldn't we limit its evils as far as we can? High license is a measure in this direction, and it ought not to be necessary to defend it against the prohibitionist's objection that it is unjust to the liquor seller.

ABOUT WOOL.

Sheep shearing will soon begin throughout the country. Notwithstanding the unusual cold of the winter, flocks come through in good condition and will yield the usual full fleeces. Indeed, it is thought that the clip will be larger this year than ever before, the increase coming from eastern Oregon. It is not yet [illegible] to determine what effect the tariff bill will have on the prices of wool, but it is thought that it will weaken them somewhat. But the decline cannot be great.

Within the past few years wool producers have improved greatly in their methods of preparing fleeces for market, but there is room for further improvement. Several lots sold in this market last year, lost forty per cent in the process of washing. Dirty wools are difficult to sell, always bring a less price proportionately than other lots, and, worse than all, give a bad name to the section from which they come, and affect the value of all its product. [illegible] from eastern Oregon and Washington [illegible] several cents per pound below those from the Willamette valley, all because they have not been put on the market in proper condition. The eastern Oregon growers [illegible] difficulties unknown in western [illegible] Oregon. Wool as it comes from [illegible] in that section is much dirtier than [illegible]. The [illegible] have urged growers to special effort, and the result is that they are gradually overcoming the market distinction between the products of the sections. [illegible] good [illegible] of their [illegible], have introduced good blood [illegible] better methods of [illegible] for market. The result is that [illegible] Oregon wools—all from east of the Cascade mountains, whether in Oregon or Washington, is so designated—are graded [illegible] year by year and notwithstanding the disadvantages of climate, alkali soil, etc., they [illegible] on an equal footing in the market with the Willamette valley and Umpqua [illegible].

But while growers east of the Cascades have been improving their product, growers on this side, relying upon natural advantages of range, climate and feed, have carelessly allowed their flocks to degrade. But little effort has been made toward keeping up a high standard of blood; and wools have been put upon the market in a slovenly way. This difference is to a certain extent a consequence of different methods of sheep farming. In eastern Oregon wool growing is a business of itself, in western and southern Oregon it is incidental to general farming. But it should be remembered that no adjunct of the farm pays surer or larger profits than the flock of sheep, and to none can attention with more profit be given. We hope to see the growers of Oregon affected with a good local spirit in the matter of keeping up the fame and value of our product. Let no wool be put upon the market in unclean condition.

A writer in the Scientific American says that the Egyptian monument in Central Park, New York, is not natural but artificial stone. The gray, reddish, uniform tint is granite, which was broken up into small pieces, and these broken pieces were mixed with a bituminous matter, something like asphaltum. Then the black substance and broken granite were thoroughly united and "set" with hydraulic lime. The hieroglyphics were formed by fastening the proper forms inside the box into which the concrete was rammed and when the concrete had hardened sufficiently the box was taken away and the patterns withdrawn. The softness of the monument is accounted for by the writer on this theory. He is satisfied that an examination of the stone by competent persons would establish his assertion.

Some political soothsayer and sign reader says Grover Cleveland can never be president because his name begins with "C," and no person with this unfortunate initial ever won the office, however much he wanted it. Just look at the array by way of proof. There were Clinton, Crawford, Clay, Calhoun, Crittenden, Clayton, Choate, Cass, Chase, Corwin, Conkling, Church, Colfax and Cameron, besides Howell Cobb, whom Jeff Davis defeated in the contest for the rebel presidency.

The road between this city and Lone Fir cemetery is in a wretched condition. Deep chuck holes are numerous, and many planks of its boarded section are loose or gone. It can not be traveled with comfort or safety. The cemetery association ought to keep the road in good condition.

From 60 to 70 per cent of the British trade in the eastern country and 13 per cent. of her whole foreign trade now goes by the Suez canal. The tonnage of British vessels passing annually through the canal is now about 5,500,000 tons.

THE LEATHER TRADE.

Within the past twenty years California has gradually changed from a mining state to one which divides its capital jointly between agriculture and manufactures, and in no article of trade has it attained a higher degree of perfection than in the manufacture of leather. In every shoe and harness shop on the coast California leather is a standard article and always commands the highest figures. At Stockton there have been extensive tanneries for eighteen years, the bark for which is brought from Marin and Sonoma counties, being freighted on sail vessels a distance of about 100 miles at an average of two dollars per cord. The first tanneries in the state, however, were established by Joseph Boston & Co. at Santa Cruz in 1851, since which time Santa Cruz leather has always been in demand. The tannic properties are derived from a black oak which grows in the mountains along the California coast from Cape Mendocino to the mouth of the gulf.

The oak of the Sacramento valley, like that of the Willamette, is an inferior article for this purpose, and does not make as good leather as the black oak which grows on the mountain slopes. About Portland we have but little of this timber, not enough to render the gathering of its bark a profitable occupation, but in the southern end of the state it is very abundant. Near Ashland about sixteen years ago Hon. J. C. Tolman established a small tannery and made an article of leather equal to the best Santa Cruz, but he suffered from a limited market and had no facilities of land transportation to enable him to sell his product outside the little towns of Ashland, Jacksonville and Yreka. But with the extension of the railroad into southern Oregon, it will be possible to accomplish one of two things—either to manufacture leather on a large scale upon the ground where the bark is produced, or to ship bark in large quantities to Portland, where hides can be had in larger quantities than in southern Oregon and where all the necessary capital for extensive manufacture may be obtained at low rates of interest.

At present there are buyers of hides and pelts in every town in the state, all of whom ship their hides to California, where they are as yet obtaining larger prices than the local tanneries can afford to pay. The reason for this is that the hides of Oregon cattle, fattened on bunch grass, contain a larger percentage of oil than California hides, and are therefore better adapted for making such heavy leather as is used in making thoroughbraces and dray harness. For the sake of controlling the leather market of the coast, the California tanneries will pay such figures for this class of hides as will leave a bare margin of profit, so as to prevent the growth of leather manufactures in this state. This condition of things cannot last a great while longer, for the bankers and other capitalists are daily finding their capital more and more idle, and will be glad to seek investments at lower rates of interest rather than have their money unemployed.

We have already stated that the crude hides of Oregon are of better quality than those produced in California or Mexico, and all that is needed is capital to work them up into good leather. Three months hence our tanners will be able to obtain black oak bark from southern Oregon in as large quantities as they desire, and this will enable them to turn out as good leather as any California shops can produce. The railroad, which hauls back three empty cars from Roseburg for every one that goes out full, can easily afford to give the tanners in and about Portland a special rate on bark for this purpose, up to the completion of a continuous line to San Francisco, and this would soon enable Oregon to produce all the leather consumed in the state, thereby checking the outflow of money and building up the industries of the state upon a solid and substantial basis. The woods along the coast abound in hemlock, which, while inferior to the black oak of southern Oregon, produces a very good quality of leather, and has long been used by the Leinenweber tannery at Astoria as well as some establishments nearer to this city.

No state can hope to get rich by the mere exportation of crude staples. The south tried it and had to succumb to the looms of Lowell and the spindles of Springfield. We have all the natural requisites for a great manufacturing state, and should take advantage of them as fast as capital can be obtained for that purpose. The wages of skilled labor is what builds up rich and powerful communities, from whose ranks grow up men of the stamp of Fulton and Whitney. We must not content ourselves with the mere exportation of wheat and raw hides. We must manufacture everything upon which our splendid water power may be made available, that we may, in our riper years, show to the world a race of men who their duties know, and knowing dare maintain."

The causes of the depression existing in the agricultural interests of the United Kingdom, have been the subject of recent discussion in the house of commons. An elaborate argument was made by one member to show that this depression is due to a general depreciation in the values of almost all farm products, save sheep, cattle, butter and cheese, and the high rent of the land. The subsequent discussion took a wide range, and other reasons adduced were: A succession of very bad seasons, the constantly increasing pressure of foreign competition, notably from the United States, the increased cost of production, and the losses of live stock suffered by the farmers. One item of the latter mentioned was that "fluke" among the sheep caused by wet weather, carried off nearly three million head in one year. But in spite of disease the number of head of cattle in the United Kingdom is constantly increasing, being 4,900,000 in 1867, 5,900,000 in 1873, and last year it touched 6,000,000.

In Cincinnati and Cleveland the democrats have carried the municipal elections. Free whisky victories both, and another lesson that the liquor traffic must be regulated by a power beyond the influence of city swill-holes.

David Davis, and his new wife are coming to the Pacific coast and perhaps to Oregon. As Mrs. Davis is not large, perhaps two bridal chambers can be made to accommodate them on the trip up the coast.

The Golden Era (San Francisco) of March 24th is devoted almost wholly to the Pacific northwest. It is the first time a California paper has extended such recognition to Oregon and Washington.

Theodore Thomas, the greatest director of America, is coming to the coast with the grandest attraction which ever traveled. It is not probable that he can be induced to come to Portland.

It cannot be that the picture of the new hotel given to the public in the West Shore is a curate. There is nobody rolling a hoop in the street.

THE ORE[illegible] quite [illegible] an article in the [illegible] up in the reported [illegible] to [illegible] in Portland to raise funds [illegible] and credits it to the Salem [illegible]. [illegible] the Salem paper [illegible] The [illegible] purposely misquoted—[illegible].

THE OREGONIAN did not see the article in the Union, but found it in the [illegible] States, and where it appeared as an editorial. Nothing could be further from our purpose than to do the Union injustice. Nor should that paper complain. It escaped an injury when THE OREGONIAN credited to another paper an article so little creditable to itself, and it ought to thank us for the [illegible] of the Union, and hope to get them.

DOING A GREAT DEAL OF GOOD.

Mrs. J. Berry, of Portland, M[illegible] writes: "Your HENRY'S CARBOLIC SALVE is doing a great deal of good. Some of my friends have been greatly benefitted by its use. I think it is the best salve I have ever used. Beware of counterfeits.

FOR PROHIBITION.

An Argument from one who Thinks it Unjust to the Liquor Seller to Tax his Business but not Unjust to Suppress It.

ALBANY, March 31.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It is impossible to test the constitutionality of a law without resorting to the courts of law. Laws may exist for years upon our statute books that are unconstitutional, but which are recognized as legal because no one sees fit to test them. I think that license laws—especially high license laws—recognize an evil in business, are contrary to the spirit of our form of government. They are oppressive. They are not opposed because they affect the poorer classes who are not able to pay the cost of litigation. The peddler who goes about the country with his store on his back is or may be compelled to pay a tax as other people in his goods and a city and county license. Can anyone give a good reason why he should be compelled to pay a license for selling goods? I think not. It is just so with any other business for which a license is required. In some cases the parties licensed are only too glad to pay the license because it creates a monopoly by keeping those who would otherwise engage in the business from doing so. THE ORE[illegible] has for many years favored free trade. The reason is, I suppose, that protection favors a few at the expense of the many. Now all the arguments which favor free trade will favor the abolishing of these license laws. There is [illegible] a just law [illegible] which [illegible] of its [illegible] They are no better than the odious monopoly grants [illegible] the kings of England resorted to as a means of revenue. The principles are the same. The only difference is that in our day the people will not allow them to be carried to such an extent as they were in the dark ages. But I do not doubt that in many cases this thumbscrew monopoly business is resorted to by municipal corporations which would equal those of England's kings. They are laws in restraint of trade, and if legal in the whisky trade they are legal in any other business. While they are not as oppressive in some cases as they are in others, the principle which would allow their enforcement in one case would permit them in all.

Taxation should be equal. To tax a man because he engages in a lawful business, more than another who engages in another lawful business is simply unjust. It is done in cities for purposes of revenue. But that does not make it right or just. Wealthy men favor the system because it makes the poor pay taxes which otherwise would fall on them. But it is a system of taxation which is liable to be abused. Men engaged in licensed trade favor it because if they are able to pay the license and keep out competition they can afford to do so and charge the extra expense to customers, while the poor fellow who is unable to pay a license is compelled to seek other employments not thus taxed. The law quoted by THE OREGONIAN, adopted in Nebraska, is as prohibitory in its nature and effects as otherwise: 1. A person is prohibited from selling if he cannot obtain thirty freeholders to testify to his respectable character. 2. If it be shown that he has broken the law within a year he is prohibited from selling. 3. He is prohibited from selling if he cannot give a bond with two sureties for $5000. 4. He is prohibited from selling to a minor, Indian, insane person or idiot. 5. He is prohibited from selling adulterated liquors. 6. He is prohibited from selling on Sunday. About the only classes of persons to whom they are allowed to sell in that state are women, who have no right to vote and are of course unprotected in this regard, and a few men who are so far gone that they would be likely to die if they did not drink, and be sure to do so if they did. I am very much in favor of the prohibitory part of the law. If they would go a step further and prohibit the sale of whisky to women, who are not allowed to vote, and those men over the age of twenty one years, as well as those under, and Indians, idiots and insane persons, it would suit our theory well. I want to ask why it is that any one can suppose that the government has power to prevent the sale of whisky to one class of persons and not to another? The necessity of prevention in the one case is as great as in the other. It will be found just as necessary to prevent the sale to the father who has a family to support as to the son who has no such a responsibility and who if he had would doubtless be just as able to bear the tortures of the drunkard's life as the father.

It is said that 80 saloons pay $8000 licences in Omaha. What does that indicate? Does it not indicate that there is an enormous amount of drinking done there? Add to that sum the other expenses of running the saloons of that city, and you will find that the unprotected, non voting women and men over 21 years of age are getting away with about as much whisky there as if they had passed a prohibitory law which some think would be of such great benefit to the whisky trade and which the whisky people favor so much. Even though high license may seem to benefit for a time it can only be temporary, because in some of those places, however respectable they may be in name and appearance, the vices which are now confined to the low dives will be enacted. There can be no avoiding them. They will follow up the drinking business wherever it may go. Drink is the great cause of most of them. Make whisky easily obtained and you make crime easy. Make whisky hard to get and you lessen crime correspondingly. The demand for prohibition does not come from a vicious class of persons; it comes from those who would save not only their own but their neighbor's children from ruin, who pay taxes and bear the burdens imposed upon them and their children by the whisky traffic. Why not try a prohibitory law? Would trying it make matters worse? Even if it should fail, no drinking would not ensue. If in time it should prove a success, so much the better for all concerned. The adoption of a prohibitory law would cost money, just as the doing away with slavery cost money. But on the other hand not to adopt it would cost more money, and, what is worse, the lives of thousands of men, women and children and the honor of a great nation. M.

NEW TO-DAY.

TO THE PUBLIC.

ALL BELIEVERS IN A FAIR DAY'S WAGES for a fair day's work all sympathizers with the cause of Labor are hereby notified of a conflict between the Typographical Union of this city and the "rat" establishment of Himes the printer.

We have used every effort in our power to come to an amicable understanding with Himes but have only been met with the declaration that he would employ whom he saw fit, and at whatever wages he could secure them, thus degrading the trade to his own level, lowering the standard of workmanship and forcing fair proprietors to compete with his cheap labor. Of all the proprietors in Portland Himes is the only one who has refused to comply with the scale of prices established by the Union.

Confident in the fairness of our cause using only legitimate means of opposition we appeal to the citizens of Portland to support us in our struggle for even-handed justice between employer and employed.

We enter this fight as much in the interest of the workingmen of other trades and callings as those of our own, and we earnestly hope you will give us your hearty support in this matter, promising on our part that we will not forget that one good turn deserves another.

THE LATE CHARLES HODGE

Resolutions to his Memory by Willamette Lodge No. 2, A F & A M

At a regular communication of Willamette Lodge No 2 A F & A M held at the lodge room in Masonic temple on Monday evening, April 2 1883 the committee appointed to present suitable resolutions expressive of the sorrow of the brethren of the lodge at the death of their late brother Charles Hodge submitted the following preamble and resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Again are we reminded of the uncertainty of human life and that when least expected death will overtake us and spare not. Familiar faces well remembered forms friends that make life dear, all must ere long pass away.

These reflections are suggested by the sudden death on the 29th day of March 1883 of our beloved brother Charles Hodge treasurer of this lodge while in the prime and vigor of manhood, pursuing a prosperous business career enjoying the pleasures of home and friends and while reaping the fruits of a well spent life which was bright with anticipations of future usefulness the unwelcome guest entered his household and after a brief sickness our brother gently passed away to scenes beyond the grave.

Chas Hodge was no ordinary man. His gentle manner and his unostentatious bearing endeared him to all within the circle of his acquaintance. His counsel and advice were valued and sought after. To know him was to love him, and to appreciate his worth. He was one who always endeavored to live up to and to carry out to their fullest extent the teachings of our beloved order was ever ready to extend the hand of fellowship and assistance to his brethren and constantly exemplified, and was guided by the four great cardinal virtues of Freemasonry temperance, fortitude, prudence and justice. Therefore be it

Resolved, That we deeply regret the loss of our deceased brother, whose example while participating in the labors of his lodge secured for him the love and respect of his brethren and we confidently trust that his labors will be continued in the Grand Lodge above where the Grand Architect of the universe presides.

Resolved, That as his life was one of unusual activity, and added much to the advancement and prosperity of this, the city of his adoption so was his worth as a citizen universally appreciated by this community not alone for his services in a public capacity but for his many acts of benevolence and his liberal hospitality.

Resolved, That we tender our sincere sympathy to, and condolence with the family of our deceased brother by whose death they have lost a kind and indulgent husband and father and trust that they may find comfort in the soothing reflection that at the close of life though reached through a painful illness, they were enabled to minister to his wants and cheer his last moments by their untiring affection.

Resolved, That as a mark of respect to the memory of our deceased brother this hall shall be draped in mourning for the period of thirty days.

Resolved, That the foregoing preamble and resolutions be spread upon our records, and that a copy of the same properly engrossed be sent to the family of the our late brother.

THE NEW MORTGAGE TAX LAW

A Test Case Begun in the State Circuit Court which Involves the Validity of the Act.

A case has been commenced in the circuit court for this county involving the validity of the act of the last legislative assembly providing for the taxation of mortgages. It appears that Mrs Henrietta S. Mumford of Rochester N Y, holds a mortgage for several thousand dollars upon real property in Multnomah county Oregon upon which certain payments have been made. On Saturday last her agent Wm M Ladd called upon Wm R S wall county clerk to endorse the payments on the margin of the record of the mortgage as provided in [the] act. The clerk refused him permission to make the endorsements and also refused to endorse them himself. Mrs Mumford thereupon sued out a mandamus to compel such endorsement of payments. Upon the return of the writ a demurrer was interposed upon the part of the clerk upon the grounds that said act is unconstitutional and void; that the bill for said act was a bill for [r]aising revenue and originated in the senate instead of the house of representatives; that its provisions did not affect the mortgage in question as the holder of it was a non resident of the state and the debt it was given to secure had no situs in the state of Oregon [illegible] and was beyond the jurisdiction of the legislative assembly of Oregon when the act was passed and that the act being void in part and its provisions not susceptible of separation it was [illegible] void in whole. It is understood that it is the wish of both parties to get a decision [illegible] as speedily as possible upon the question [illegible] any embarrassment [illegible] taxes for the ensuing year.

PICTURES AND PISTOL

Victor Volney Visits his Debtors with Two Constables to Reclaim Some Property—What Happened there and Afterwards before Justice Greene

Four cases upon the docket yesterday in Justice Greene's court occupied the greater portion of the afternoon in their trial. Two were state cases the others were civil suits and all were about a few harmless, pretty pictures that hung upon the wall. The facts which caused the trouble as developed in the various trials, are as follows. Victor Volney who keeps picture frames and pictures for sale frequently furnishes people who desire to decorate their homes with his goods on credit. Two families living on Third street and occupying the same house, were thus supplied, and through some misunderstanding the pay for the pictures was not forthcoming at the proper time. Volney thereupon sought the services of the law and brought suit in Justice Greene's court to recover his property. A writ of attachment was issued, and two special constables Messrs Dusenberry and Arnold were sworn to execute it. Volney went along to point out his property.

George Minville and Mrs Trillinger were the persons whom Volney sued. Minville has the first lease of the premises where they live and sub-lets the lower portion to Mrs Trillinger who in her turn keeps a quiet lodging house. When Volney and the constables entered her rooms she was somewhat taken aback but when the officers exhibited their authority she made no objection. Volney however is of a very excitable nature and made himself quite officious without either cause or authority. This angered Mrs Trillinger and she ordered him out of the house. He raised his fist as if to strike her and she ran into her bedroom, coming out soon after with a revolver. Meanwhile Minville who had heard the fuss came down stairs to see what was the matter and believing the lady to have been insulted pushed Volney out into the hall. Here the two men clinched and struck each other several blows before the constables could interfere and separate them.

Volney and the constables then left the house the former again seeking Justice Greene and swearing out warrants for the arrest of both Mrs Trillinger and Mr Minville charging the latter with assault and battery and the former with an assault with a dangerous weapon. The latter case was tried first and although the testimony showed that Mrs Trillinger only held the revolver in her hand without raising it or making any threats the court said he believed she went after the weapon with the intention of shooting some one and therefore he would hold her to answer before the grand jury with bonds at $200. These were immediately furnished and the lady departed.

In Minville's case the testimony was much the same and so was the decision. The court believed Volney had been technically assaulted and accordingly fined him $ [illegible] 0 without costs.

Mrs Trillinger thinks it must be a new law not yet placed on the statute books that allows a court to determine what was the intent of a person's mind when that person has made no outward sign of his or her thoughts. The law she thinks as it stands at present does not make it a crime for a person who has been threatened with an assault in his or her own house to take up a weapon as a protection from bodily harm and it would have looked better if the court had stated more explicitly of what crime he considered her guilty. Volney will have a hearing in Justice Bushwiler's court to-day on charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs Trillinger.

AMUSEMENTS

SIBERIA.—This play was presented at New Market for the first time last night to a large audience—the largest that has greeted the Palmer company on an opening night. It is a recital of the recent Russian troubles persecution of Hebrews and efforts to crush nihilism being the groundwork upon which the plot is built. It reminds one strongly of "Michael Strogoff" though in dialogue scenes and situations they have nothing in common. Siberia gives each member of the excellent company ample opportunity for the display of dramatic power and it is sufficient to say that the piece was well cast. There must have been effective work at rehearsals because the performance went without a hitch something remarkable for an opening night. The scenery was new throughout and this feature was an enjoyable relief to those who always nerve themselves for another look at the well worn canvas of the New Market stage. The prison scene was particularly good. There was too some excellent music incidental to the play and if Mr Navoni would only exert himself more in the matter of selections between acts the orchestra would be a decided feature. Altogether Siberia is to be commended. Enough of plot is given attention, noble sentiment pervading strong situations, rich costumes carefulness in detail, a ballet with new dances, and fresh scenery—it merits, and will no doubt have a good run.

Additional interest was felt in the appearance of Mrs. F W Stechhan who essayed the cheerful and not easy role of Vera a flower girl. She looked the part well and made more of it than might be expected from an amateur.

REMEMBER.

Every business is conducted to make money. No merchant sells goods at a loss, unless he has paid too much for them, or hopes by selling some things at a loss to sell other goods at a large profit. A glance at any of the newspapers of the day will show how far these shameful methods are resorted to. "Sweeping Reductions," "Selling Below Cost," "Goods at $1 per yard, worth $1 50." What else do such things mean but fraud? Such dealers simply thrive on the credulity of the public. But happily there are other business methods in vogue. There are merchants who sell low by selling much. People who have ready cash, and are thus free to trade where they will, find this out and deal with such merchants more and more. In time a great trade springs up as strong and enduring as Gibraltar itself, because broadly founded on the deep-seated convictions of the public.

The larger such a business grows the more independent it is. It dictates prices to manufacturers. It gets the best goods—the very cream of the market. On the other hand it has the power of protecting its customers by selling to every one at the same prices; by allowing credit to no one, and by putting the selling price in plain figures on every article.

We do not claim superior honesty, but [illegible] able business honorably conducted [illegible] which has grown through [illegible] of its own merit in the manner indicated.

To every customer we at least promise [illegible] treatment, and we believe [illegible] add: A saving in money to every one who trades here.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES

THE LAW'S DELAY.

One of those Cases in which the Tortuosities of the Law make a Farce of Justice.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A decision was rendered by the supreme court to-day in the interesting criminal case of Chas. T. King, plaintiff in error, against the state of Missouri, brought here on a writ of error from the supreme court of the state. King, plaintiff in error, on January 4, 1875, shot and killed a woman named Dora Broadwater. At the March term of the St. Louis criminal court in the same year, he was indicted for murder in the first degree, found guilty, and sentenced to be hanged. Upon a re-hearing, the judgment of the criminal court was reversed, and a new trial ordered. Two more trials followed, in both of which the jury failed to agree. Upon the fourth trial the prisoner made an agreement with the state to plead guilty to murder in the second degree, upon consideration that he be not imprisoned for a longer term than 10 years. Under this plea he was sentenced to IMPRISONMENT FOR TWENTY FIVE YEARS.

He again appealed, and the judgment of the lower court was reversed by the supreme court, and the cause a second time remanded. Upon his next trial the prisoner refused to withdraw his plea of guilty of murder in the second degree or to make another plea. Thereupon the court ordered a plea of not guilty to be entered for him, and he was again tried for murder in the first degree, found guilty and sentenced to death. He appealed to the court of appeals and the supreme court of the state. In both these tribunals the judgment and sentence of the court below were affirmed. Sentence was then ordered to be executed February 24, 1882, but before that time Judge Miller, in the United States supreme court, granted a writ of error, and the case was brought here for final review. Under the former constitution and laws of Missouri, as they stood when the offense was committed and the indictment found, the prisoner in the first degree after he had been convicted or pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree; but under the constitution of 1875, as construed by the supreme court of Missouri a person indicted for murder in the first degree, and convicted or sentenced on a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, may be again tried for murder in the first degree in case of appeal and reversal. It was contended in all the courts by prisoner's counsel that the section of the state constitution of 1875, adopted subsequent to the indictment, could not be applied to the prisoner's case, in that it changed punishment, etc.

COULD NOT BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Chief Justice Waite and Justices Bradley, Gray and Matthews dissented. This decision was rendered by a bare majority of one, and finally relieves the prisoner from the sentence of death, which has been hanging over him for the past seven years.

A Supreme court decision was also rendered to-day in the tax case of the Memphis and Charleston railroad against the United States, brought here on a writ of error from the United States Circuit court for the western district of Tennessee. This was instituted by the United States to recover taxes alleged to be due from the company under the revenue acts of 1862, 1864 and 1866, on account of interest, coupons and dividends paid between July 1, 1862, and January 1, 1866. The judgment of the Circuit court is reversed, and the cause remanded for such further proceedings not inconsistent with the opinion of this court as justice may require.

GENERAL NEWS.

Heavy Robbery.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Wall street was disturbed to-day when an announcement came over the tape that [illegible] securities, the property of E. B. Treat, publisher, had been stolen, and warning the public against their purchase. Treat's office was visited by burglars who had broken open the safe and carried off all the booty they could lay hands on. The stolen securities comprise 8000 Metropolitan First mortgage bonds; 2000 Ohio Central, First Division; 40 shares New York Central; 50 shares of Metropolitan stock, and 100 shares of Michigan Central stock.

Pleasant Reading for the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 3.—The revolutionary party in Russia has issued a proclamation announcing that [illegible] preparations are complete for the coronation of the Czar, and they have every hope of [illegible] fully carrying out their long devised plans. The proclamation contains warning to all persons that they will, if they value their personal safety, keep at a distance from the czar during the ceremony. The revolution pronunciamento concludes with the words: "We will strike once more for freedom."

English Lawyers Coming.

LONDON, April 3.—Lord Coleridge, chief justice of England, in expectation of being able to visit the United States by invitation of the American bar association, has urged several leading barristers to accompany him. [illegible] Russel, liberal member of parliament for Dundalk, is among those who have accepted the invitation.

London Points.

LONDON, April 3.—The failure is announced of [illegible] & Co., merchants of this city; liabilities, [illegible].

The steamer Indiana to-day took the first batch of emigrants forwarded by the British government to America. The party numbered 75, and was principally made up of persons evicted in Connemara, Ireland.

Project for a University.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The trustees of Columbia college discussed yesterday the project of appealing to citizens of New York and the country at large for subscriptions to construct a college, or metropolitan university, where students who are now compelled to go to European universities can obtain thorough instruction in the higher branches of learning.

Arrested for Cruelty to Children.

NEW YORK, April 3.—P. T. Barnum, Jas. L. Hutchinson and J. T. Bailey, and Jas. Elliott, father of the Elliott children, whose performances on unicycles and bicycles has drawn the attention of the society for the prevention of cruelty to children, have been arrested and held for trial in $300 bail each.

Comments on Lord Churchill's Letter.

LONDON, April 3.—Churchill's letter is the theme of comment in parliamentary and political circles. [illegible] has thought proper to assure Northcote, conservative leader, that he does not sympathise with the sentiments conveyed in Churchill's communication to the Times.

Royal Marriage.

MADRID, April 3.—The marriage of Prince Louis Ferdinand, of Bavaria to the Infanta Omaro Delia Paz was celebrated in the chapel of the royal palace to-day with the usual ceremony. The patriarch of Indies was present. The king and queen of Spain were present.

Proposed Reduction of Wages.

[illegible], April 3.—Eight hundred hands in the [illegible] factory of John Mundell & Co. have referred to the arbitration committee of Knights of Labor the proposition of the firm for 10 per cent reduction of wages.

Tunnel Under Niagara River.

BUFFALO, April 3.—A petition signed by a large number of capitalists has been presented by counsel asking for a grant to build a tunnel under Niagara river, and to receive 25 per cent of the profits when completed.

THE EAST SIDE.

OUT OF LUCK.

The experience of the firm of Shiner, Hunton & [illegible], sash, door and blind manufacturers of this city, furnished a marked exemplification of the adage that "misfortunes never come singly." The firm was formed of four practical mechanics—E. S. Shiner, E. F. Hunton, J. G. Belander and Noe Lantere—who but recently commenced business for themselves at the factory on the corner of J and Third streets, which they leased for a number of years. Work soon crowded in upon them, but scarcely had they got under fair headway than typhoid fever attacked one of the members, Mr. Lantere, causing his removal to St. Vincent hospital, where the disease has held him ever since. About a week after this misfortune visited them the terrible accident befel Mr. Shiner, which caused him his life. To complete the list of mishaps, so far as heard from, a young man named [illegible] Smith, who had charge of the engine, while using a chisel on Friday last, cut his hand severely, severing an artery, of one of his fingers. The firm is now shorthanded, and have been compelled to refuse orders, being already overstocked with work. Mr. Lantere, however, is fast convalescing, and will be able to resume his duties in the course of a few days.

NOMINATING CONVENTION.

A citizens' meeting took place at Washington hall, Albina, Monday evening, for the purpose of nominating candidates for justice of the peace and constable, to be voted for at the ensuing election in Albina precinct. For justice, Nathan Hackett and A. Ford were placed in nomination. Hackett receiving twenty-three votes and Ford ten, the former was declared the nominee of the convention. For constable, Mr. McCarthy, the present deputy sheriff, was nominated and there being no other nominee, he was elected by acclamation. Friends of Mr. Ford are desirous of his running independently for justice, and it is probable he may do so. The election occurs next Monday.

GLADIATORS.

The shrill note of a police whistle about 11 o'clock Monday night attracted a crowd to Adam Lope's saloon, where Grant Dryden, the wood dealer, and Hank Pennell, the whisky merchant, were found engaged in bloody conflict, in order to settle some difference of opinion existing between them, the bitterness of which no doubt was superinduced by copious draughts of "Adam's ale." The interposition of the police probably saved the sacrifice of two noble lives in an unworthy cause, considering which they should consider themselves lucky by escaping with a fine of $5 and costs each, which the recorder imposed upon them next morning.

CHANGES ON THE ROAD.

Shan Conser, who for about two years has been conductor on the east side mail train, on the O. & C. road, has been transferred to the west side, to take charge of the McMinnville accommodation; and Mr. Wickersham, brother of J. L. Wickersham, time-keeper at the car shops, and who recently arrived here from the east, has been placed in the position formerly occupied by Mr. Conser.

NOTES.

At a raffle for a handsome worsted wreath of flowers at the Lily restaurant Monday, Mrs. Emma Johnson was the lucky individual who realized on the fifty-cent investment.

Mr. Myers' absence from the council meeting Monday evening was occasioned by the sickness of a little son taking an unfavorable turn. The child was better yesterday.

Mr. Otto Kleeman of this city received news last evening of the death of his father at Rossowa, Germany. He was aged 77 years.

Preparations are being made for the brick building to be erected on the northwest corner of Fourth and J streets.

Another real estate firm has sprung into existence here. High license will be resorted to shortly if this thing don't stop.

Miss Jennie Walton, aged 14, of Mount Tabor, died on Monday after a brief illness.

A number of ladies and gentlemen have organized for a series of select parties, the first of which took place at Hoppach's hall last night.

GARRISON LIFE AT VANCOUVER.

Trials of Marksmanship and Presentation of Prizes—A Lecture by Gen. Morrow—Review of the Week.

VANCOUVER, April 3.

All friends of THE OREGONIAN are pleased to notice the marked change in the typographical appearance and local ability. We realize that it takes money and ability to make a paper of the size and quality of this oldest and most reliable daily paper of the northwest.

We would have you know we are "alive" on this side of the Columbia, and booms, railroads and concerts are all the rage.

The concert and entertainment given by Ellsworth Post, G. A. R., was a pleasant affair, the chief feature being a lecture on "The Battle of Buena Vista," by in which that gentleman ably discussed the chances of defeat and success in that important battle of the Mexican war, and the of General [illegible], eloquent as he saw before him some of the very men who were in that battle, and when he used the immortal words of Gen. Taylor, "Grand by your guns, Capt. Bragg," the applause was terrific.

The audience were also favored with some fine singing by the Arion quartette, composed of Prof. Donaldson of Portland, Max Ellrich, Gordon and Knight of Vancouver. Mr. Ellrich is the originator of the idea of such a singing club for this place, and they are in demand.

The most charming singer of this country was present on this occasion and was introduced in a highly eulogistic manner by Gen. Morrow as a Michigan woman, of a fighting family, and the wife of a fighting officer in the U. S. army, Mrs. Major Frank D. Baldwin, who sang in her most elegant style that lovely song "Esmeralda," and, to a hearty encore, responded with "The Dashing White Sergeant."

The remarks of Post Commander Geoghigan on actual prison life in Andersonville, as experienced by him, was an awful recital of cold-blooded cruelty.

The grand presentation of the Nevada challenge trophy, valued at $500 took place to-day. This trophy has been so often described by the press that I will only say that it is the identical trophy which was given by the citizens of Nevada to the U. S. army, to be given every year to the best company of marksmen in any regiment of the army. The first time it was ever shot for was by Battery K, Third Artillery, on a score of 829. It has recently been shot for and won by company B, 21st U. S. Infantry, Capt. E. S. Joslin commanding, stationed at Port Townsend, total score, 3 23; average score, 87.42 per cent. Thirty-eight men fired for this trophy, and the average strength of the company was 47.22.

The medal is made of Nevada gold and silver, and Capt. Joslyn was present, by order of Gen. Miles, to receive and take it to his company. The company will hold the trophy for one year, and longer if they win it again. We will not attempt a description of it. The first presentation was to Sergeant J. D. Garber, troop H, First Cavalry, solid gold—first prize department of the Columbia, an inch and a half in diameter. On the face is a raised laurel wreath encircling the name of the winner; on the opposite face is inscribed, "Army Department Marksmanship—Coat of Arms of the U. S.," crossed muskets and target, and signal flags, with a star above all. On the gold strap dividing the word "Department" are the eagle and shield; cost about seventy dollars, to remain the personal property of the sergeant.

THE SECOND PRESENTATION.

"The Army Badge," same as the medal in size, of solid gold, has on the face, "No. 1. Sergeant C. H. Clark; Troop B, First Cavalry. Awarded October 27, 1882." On the opposite face is the head of Mars in raised bas relief and an inscription. Second class army prize marksmanship, valued at seventy dollars, enclosed in Turkish morocco case, satin lining, also to remain the personal property of this gentleman.

At 11 o'clock sharp all the troops of the garrison paraded in full dress, with colors, on the grand parade ground in front of the house of the post commander. Col. Morrow was in command, with line officers as follows: Capt. W. H. Boyle, Capt. Haughey, Lieut. Ross, quartermaster and Lieut. Cornman, adjutant. Major Towne, post surgeon, and Assistant Surgeon Owings were in their proper places in full dress uniform.

The companies were commanded by Lieut. Rheem and Lieut. Bonesteel, one company; Lieut. Williams and Lieut. Hearn one company; Lieut. Duncan, one company; Capt. Evans and Lieut. Sparrow, one company. The beautifully uniformed light battery E 1st artillery of Fort Stevens, was commanded by Lieuts. Patterson, St John Pope and Lieut. Rodman, Major Taylor, the company commander, being absent.

The ladies of the garrison gathered on Gen. Morrow's porch to witness the ceremonies, and hundreds of visitors dotted the parade ground at the appointed hour.

General Nelson A. Miles, department commander, with his staff officers, C. D. Greene, assistant adjutant general, personal aides Lieutenant Schwatka and Lieutenant Long, Captain Bryant, ordnance department, Major Cushing, chief commissary, Major Baldwin, judge advocate, Major Moore, medical director, Assistant Surgeon Wilcox, Major Kimball, chief quartermaster of the department of Columbia, all made their appearance in full dress uniform, and while the band played the general advanced to the position in front of center column, where stood Captain Joslyn, Sergeants Garber and Clark, who were to receive the honors from General Miles.

All things being ready, General Miles then stepped forward from his staff a few paces, and made the following remarks:

ADDRESS OF MAJOR-GEN. NELSON A. MILES.

OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS—The occasion of this parade is one that gives me great pleasure. I am gratified to be the medium of conveying from the government of the United States these rich trophies to those who have won them in its service.

I shall attempt no word painting, for nothing I could say would add to the merits of those we are about to honor.

These glittering trophies you have won are more eloquent than any words I could express. It has been the custom through all ages with every government to recognize merit in those who are in its military service.

There are various incentives that inspire soldiers to heroic acts, to grand achievements, and I may mention among the strongest motives that prompt men to noble deeds, is the desire to defend one's country and kindred.

There is another ambition to achieve fame and glory on the fields of war; and there is still another, and this is a desire to acquire perfection in the profession of arms.

The last is no less worthy than the others I have mentioned, as it better qualifies a soldier for every requirement of his art; and it is this ambition that has prompted you to acquire great excellence in your sphere of life.

It has been the custom of governments to decorate its soldiers with medals of honor, as far back as the ancient Romans.

THE LAUREL WREATH

Was the highest gift that could be given by the government or received by its military heroes. The iron cross of Prussia, the Maltese cross of France, the Victoria medal of England, have been placed upon the breasts of worthy soldiers by hands that swayed the sceptres of empires.

And this bestowal of valuable prizes I consider as commendable to both the government and its soldiers as any that I have mentioned.

These solid gold medals are given to the soldiers who, during twelve months, have made the best record as marksmen in the various rifle contests in the army.

During the last few years the great improvement in the art of marksmanship has shown that nothing but the most persistent effort and constant attention to this duty, with temperate habits, will enable one to succeed; and it shows also that the rifle can be made a most effective weapon.

In the hands of skilled marksmen the rifle becomes a part of the soldier. The spirit of the man appears to animate the weapon, and with constant care and practice becomes the same as the delicate musical instrument in the hands of the great artist. The two in effect become one.

I will now place upon the breast of Sergeant J. D. Garber, troop H, 1st U. S. cavalry, first prize of this department, a solid gold medal, and in doing so I decorate a soldier who has done honor to himself, his regiment and the department in which he serves. (The commanding general then placed the medal upon the sergeant's breast.)

I will now decorate Sergeant C. H. Clerk, troop B, 1st U. S. cavalry, with the army badge, 2d prize. Not only has he won honor for himself, regiment and department but for the entire army. (The badge was then placed on the sergeant's breast.)

General Miles continued: I now hold in my hand the Nevada trophy, presented to the organization that has made the best record in the United States—Company B, 21st U. S. infantry, Capt. E. S. Joslyn commanding.

This is the second time that it has been won by any company of the regular army. In looking over the record I see there is no score that compares with that made by the company in the last year's contest. I regret that I can not thank every officer and soldier of that company, but I will do so through the commanding officer, Captain E. S. Joslyn, for it has been by his excellent management and instruction, as well as by the skill of the soldiers, that they have achieved this great success and won this most valuable prize, contending against every company in the entire army of the United States; and I present this prize to you as one worthy to receive it for your command. And through the officers and soldiers present I desire to thank the troops of this department for the attention they have given to this branch of their profession.

Gen. Miles then placed the trophy on the breast of the gallant captain, and the troops passed in grand review before Gen. Miles. They never appeared to a better advantage. They marched handsomely and reflected credit upon their officers. The general and his staff returned to their homes and the band of 21st infantry took station in front of Col. Morrow's house and played several fine pieces, much to the pleasure of all the ladies of the garrison, who were there assembled witnessing the ceremonies of this never-to-be-forgotten occasion.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY, April 3.

Clearing weather has followed the rain and to-day has been bright and warm. Rains still prevail in California, but the fall is lessening. There is now every indication of a clear spell, and probably some frost. This last is to be feared, as it would affect the fruit crop.

Markets to-day have been fairly active for most lines. Receipts by last night's steamer are pretty well cleaned up.

Freights show a better feeling, especially for next season's loading. At San Francisco 60s are asked for iron, equivalent to 65s here. To secure vessels these rates would doubtless have to be paid, for it now appears that there will be a good demand for tonnage. A quite important part of Oregon's crop will be needed at home—much more than is usually needed.

Wheat shows weakness under continued discouraging advices. It is almost impossible to give a quotation here, as holders positively refuse to concede the situation. Millers decline to make any positive offer, as other markets are declining.

Flour steady at full prices, and without Walla Walla offering at reduced prices, values will likely be maintained.

Oats are hardly so firm. A car load to-day was offered, the holder asking 70c. This is considered top of market. Probably 100 tons is held here by two houses who, while not expecting much higher prices, will not force a sale. The local demand only is to be supplied, San Francisco not calling for any. At that city the market is easier for both oats and barley.

Onions firmer and higher, owing to advices and light stock. Twenty sacks were shipped per Columbia.

Butter steady at unchanged prices.

Chickens firm at quotations, with few coming in.

Eggs steady and bringing full prices.

Grain bags firm. Rice rather higher. Bean is very firm with advance probable. Outlook for wool unchanged.

Receipts of produce past 24 hours have been 205 ctls wheat, 1000 bbls flour, 180 ctls oats, 5350 lbs millstuff, 45 sks potatoes, 11 bls hay, 576 lbs hides, 20 bxs butter, 4800 doz eggs, 55 bxs fruit, 900 bbls lime. Also 512 bbls flour, 9315 lbs hides, 31 sks flaxseed from the eastern section.

The Columbia took out 6 cases cassimeres, 7 bales blankets, 2 bales flannels, 120 cords wood, 1 box hop roots, 100 sheep pelts, 10 bundles green calfskins, 541 green hides, 147 bundles green hides, 14 bundles deer-skins, 20 sks onions, 20 boxes apples, 900 quarters and 1842 half sacks flour, $1975 treasure.

The aggregate supply of wheat in sight in the United States and Canada, not including California and Oregon, March 22, was 23,616,400 bushels, of corn, 14,150,100 bushels. At the same time last year the supply was 14,452,350 bushels wheat and 12,926,204 bushels of corn.

The London Grocers' Gazette, March 10, says: Several parcels of late importations of Fraser and Skeena river fish have been disposed of, holders having shown more disposition to meet views of buyers, and, considering the satisfactory quality of recent arrivals, there is a fair prospect of the whole catch going into consumption at present prices, provided the quality of the later shipments turn out as good as the present arrivals. Prices for Columbia river are maintained without anything of note passing. Dyster, Nalder & Co. yesterday offered at public auction 2800 cases "Adair's" Columbia river ex-Glengarry, but the lot was withdrawn at 25s the goods being rather white, of inferior quality and irregular, some being very white in color.

The Knappton Packing Co. offer $1 each for salmon at their cannery in April. Wm. Hume, for years the shipper of the first lot new canning, shipped 120 cases ex Columbia, of new pack this being first shipment. The run Monday was very fair for commencement of season, 20 and 25 to a boat was the common catch. The highest boat was 85 for the Columbia Canning Co.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Mississippi arrived at Port Townsend to-day hence.

The Jane Porter, hence November 7th, and Penshaw, hence November 14th, arrived at Queenstown yesterday.

The Melancthon is expected up early to-morrow morning, and will discharge at Flanders' wharf.

The Harry Morse's cargo is coming out in the very best condition.

The Gilcock has discharged all cargo except enough for stiffening, and has hauled outside the Costra.

The British ship Lake Erie was at Hamburg March 1st.

The ship Patrick Henry, 857 tons, built at New York in 1839, is now for sale at Liverpool, £5 000 being the asking price. She now hails from Cork. A life of forty four years speaks well for American ship-building.

The keel of the first steamship to be built in Gorringe's yard will be laid about April 15th. Eight hundred men will be employed in the yard. The company is said to have a contract to build four first-class steamships to run from Puget Sound in connection with the North Pacific Railroad company.

The Reaper is lightening 200 tons and is expected up to-night by her stevedores.

The Gen. Miles leaves Astoria for Gray's harbor the 6th inst.

During the month of March twelve ships took cargoes of Puget Sound lumber to foreign ports, four vessels going to Valparaiso, three to Honolulu, two to Iquique, one each to Sydney, Callao and Melbourne. The cargoes comprised rough and dressed lumber, shingles, laths, pickets and deck plank, to the aggregate value of $173,530, equivalent to about 10,300,000 feet of rough lumber, at $12 per thousand. The largest cargo was that of the ship Oriental, consisting of 1,310,000 feet lumber, 249,000 laths and 30,000 pickets. The next largest cargo was that of the bark Lauderdale.

The Victoria Colonist publishes a list of vessels on the way to British Columbia, and will make it a feature of the paper.

The new steam schooner Barbara Boscowitz was launched at Victoria Saturday. She will go into the northern trade.

Rejoice! Rejoice! "He is Alive Again." "Was Lost, but is Found."

Under date of July 9, 1882, Mr. E. B. Bright, of Windsor Locks, Conn., writes a plain, modest narrative, which, from its very simplicity, has the true ring of fine gold. He says—

"My father is using Hunt's Remedy and seems to be improving; in fact, he is very much better than he has been for a long time. He had been tapped three times. The first time they got from him sixteen quarts of water, the second time thirteen quarts, and fully as much more the third time, and he would constantly fill up again every time after he had been tapped until he commenced using Hunt's Remedy, which acted like magic in his case, as he began to improve at once, and now his watery accumulation passes away through the secretions naturally and he has none of that swelling or filling up which was so frequent before the functions of the kidneys were restored by the use of Hunt's Remedy. He is a well known citizen of this place, and has always been in business here."

Again he writes, Nov. 27, 1882—

"I beg most cheerfully and truthfully to state, in regard to Hunt's Remedy, that its use was the saving of my father's life. I spoke to you in my previous letter in regard to his being tapped three times. It is the most remarkable case that has been heard of in this section. For a man of his age (sixty years) it is a most remarkable cure. He had been unable to attend to his business more than a year, and was given up by the doctors.

"The first bottle of Hunt's Remedy that he used gave instant relief. He has used in all seven bottles and continues to use it whenever he feels drowsy or sluggish, and it affords instant relief. He is now attending to his regular business, and has been for several months. I am perfectly willing that you should publish this letter, as we thoroughly believe that father's life was saved by using Hunt's Remedy; and these facts given above may be a benefit to others suffering in like manner from diseases or functions of the Kidneys and liver."

Various Quacks,

Who, each with his own Pet Scheme, Cultivate the Field of Human Nature.

There have always been quacks, legal quacks, theological quacks, scientific quacks and medical quacks. Some of them are bland, oily fellows, who argue and smile the world into believing in their favorite bit of humbug. Others are pompous and pretentious parasites. But they make it pay. Men seem to love to be swindled, stipulating only that it shall be neatly done.

The dear public are equally liberal to the electric and magnetic fraud. This fellow is a godsend to us. He will put a magnetic belt around your waist, a magnetic necklace under your chin, or fit you out with an entire suit of magnetic clothes, warranted to serve the purpose of ordinary garments, and at the same time to cure all ordinary diseases, from whooping cough to hasty consumption.

Most of these have no more electric or magnetic power about them than reside in woolen blankets or in girdles of sack cloth. Only when applied by an expert is electricity of the slightest use as a medicinal agent, and even then its value is grossly overrated. What is the strongest presumptive evidence in favor of a particular remedy? Clearly that it should have been prepared by responsible persons of acknowledged skill in the treatment of disease.

Squarely on this foundation stands BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER. Endorsed by physicians, pharmacists, druggists and chemists, it needs no further apology nor introduction. It is the one and only true and tried external application. Quacks of all kinds pay the Capcine the compliment of their dislike, as Satan is said to hate holy water.

Look in the middle of the plaster for the word "CAPCINE." Price 25 cents.
